

Welcome to Central Piedmont Community College

CPCC is an exceptional institution which is recognized nationally for its commitment to student success, workforce development and innovative practices. In 1963, Central Piedmont Community College was established as one of the first of the 58 colleges in the NC Community College System. At that time, the college had 23 degree and diploma programs. Today, there are more than 300 degree, diploma and certificate programs, a comprehensive literacy program and an extensive variety of corporate and continuing education offerings which are offered at six campus locations and through online courses. The catalog is a comprehensive inventory of the information and resources you may need to achieve personal, professional, academic or career goals at Central Piedmont Community College.

CPCC is a national leader in workforce development and maintains its mission of remaining academically, geographically and financially accessible so that it can better serve our students.

All the best,

Kandi W. Deitemeyer, Ed. D.,
President
