

Welcome to Central Piedmont Community College

Choosing the right college is an important decision that shapes careers, opportunities, and futures. Central Piedmont supports students at every step, whether starting fresh, working toward a career change, or planning to transfer to a four-year university.

For more than 60 years, Central Piedmont has provided a practical and flexible education. Students learn from experienced instructors who bring real-world knowledge into the classroom. Programs are designed to build technical skills and the confidence needed to succeed in today's workforce. With eight locations across Mecklenburg County and various online options, education can fit into even the busiest schedule.

Central Piedmont is where students find encouragement, resources, and a community that believes in their success. Whether pursuing a degree, a certification, or personal growth, there is a path here for everyone. The next step starts today.
