

Library

The Central Piedmont Library serves a diverse learning community by providing information literacy instruction, digital literacy training, relevant resources, and point-of-need services to foster academic and workforce success.

The Central Piedmont Library is comprised of seven full-service campus libraries. The library's website serves as the gateway to access online resources, print books, magazines, media, scholarly journals, e-books, audiobooks, and videos. The college community can access these resources in person and online. The library is accessible online every day, 24 hours a day.

Archival materials on the history of Central Piedmont, Central High School, Carver College, Mecklenburg College, and the Central Industrial Education Center are available via the college Archives in print and digital formats. The College Archives is located in the Hagemeyer Library, Parr Center on Central Campus and is accessible online by visiting the website.

The Central Piedmont Library provides library instruction, interlibrary loans, course reserves, group study facilities, one-on-one research appointments, online research assistance, digital literacy assistance, and offers chat reference service. A comprehensive description of the library as a place, resource, and service is available on the library website.
